MARKET COMMENTARY - MARCH 2024

Greetings! I hope everyone had a good Easter. It's not often that Easter occurs in March. When growing up, my family considered rain on Easter Sunday a blessing, as it was said this meant it would rain on the next seven Sundays.

April showers bring May flowers! The current drought map is looking better from three months ago. Keep praying for rain; we still have a way to go.

U.S. Drought Monitor - Midwest *

Auction volume is down, another indication land market conditions are adjusting. The following table shows first quarter 2024 had the second lowest volume since my keeping track in 2019.

MARKET COMMENTARY - CONTINUED

As you can see from the auction data, we are still getting some strong sales: Sioux County - $26,500/acre, Washington County - $20,750/acre, and Poweshiek County - $19,500/acre. With results like this, you would think the market is still cruising at a high altitude. However, there were eight "no sales" this month. In March 2023, there were three "no sales." This is what a transitioning market looks like. You get a few strong sales and "no sales" in the same month. Overall, the market is trending downward, not by a drastic decrease, but downward, nonetheless. Corn prices rallied this past Friday but are still below breakeven. Confirming auction results with my realtor friends, the buyer pool is very cautious. Check out the difference in corn and soybean cash prices from one year ago (see below).

EXCITING NEWS!

ANNOUNCING LANDHERO! Many Land Talk Monthly subscribers have asked for access to more of my sale data. As such, I have partnered with Steven Brockshus and LandHero, LLC, to offer this access along with other land sale research! With extensive experience presenting land sale information, Steven has created a user-friendly website to access my real-time land sale information that will allow you to make your own analysis.

We are offering an introductory 20% discount through the end of April for subscriptions to my database on LandHero.

Below are cash prices of corn and soybeans, which are highly correlated to land prices, current and one year ago.
